

Contents

Editorial Note	9
PART ONE
BY WAY OF INTRODUCTION
I. Historical Legacy and Cultural Dialectics: Ten Points on the Western Classical Tradition	13
PART TWO METHODOLOGICAL ISSUES
II. The Text and Its Meaning	29
III. Hermeneutics and Philology	45
IV. Housman's Timeless Genius and Contemporary Cognitive Science	55
V. The Philologist's Memory and the Memory of the Poet	71
PART THREE
VIRGIL, PROPERTIUS, OVID
VI. Roger Mynors' Virgil	85
VII. A Style for the Aeneid	105
VIII. The Perceptive Reader: On Expressive Vibrations in the Aeneid	121
IX. Probing a Sceptical Prejudice: Old Thoughts and New on the Helen Episode	135
X. Literary Characters and Romantic Prejudices: The Case of Aeneas	155
XI. Propertius, or the Sincerity of Fiction	169
XII. 'As I Honoured My Elders, so My Successors Honoured Me': Ovid and the Continuity of the New	183
BIBLIOGRAPHY	193
INDEX OF PASSAGES DISCUSSED	209